Dear Dr. Dreyer:

The College Board and the SAT® Program fully support the American Regions Mathematics League (ARML) in its efforts to promote strong mathematics education in American schools and through your annual national competition.

Students are encouraged to register for a test date that won't interfere with competitive events in which they might participate. However, if students are already registered for the June test and then subsequently learn that the ARML team to which they are committed has been accepted into the competition that conflicts with their registered test date, they can ask their school officials to request an alternate test date. The procedures for doing so can be found online at:

<https://collegereadiness.collegeboard.org/sat/k12-educators/coordinating/alternate-test-dates>

As noted at the website above, students must already be registered for an SAT administration before their school official can request an alternate test date on their behalf. The registration deadlines are available at:

<https://collegereadiness.collegeboard.org/sat/register/dates-deadlines>.

Thank you for all that you do to encourage students.

Sincerely,
